Does the Lord get angry?

A session aimed at parents from 7-9 pm
this Saturday, 24th October

Revd Becky Jarratt and Christine Bank write:

The Lord we hear of in the Old Testament often appeared to be angry. "Whoever has sinned against Me, I will blot him out of My book." That sounds like an angry God to me! We also read in the New Testament that Jesus was angry with the money changers: “Jesus entered the temple courts and began driving out those who were buying and selling there. He overturned the tables of the money changers and the benches of those selling doves”.

If the Lord can be angry with us, has He sent down this global pandemic? Have we made Him so angry that He wants to wipe out considerable numbers of the world population?

We will hear the New Church view, and discuss what this means to us. We will also think about how we can talk about it to our teens and children.

As we cannot meet in person for October Family

Weekend, join us for a range of whole and small-group discussion. Bring your own wine and snacks!
