Auckland Church

Gemma McLean writes:

John Sutton recently wrote to say:

“On the 28th February we are holding our last service in our Church here in Auckland. It is rather sad because it was designed and largely built by the congregation 55 years ago.”

He has also shared an article that he wrote for their February-March newsletter, which can be accessed below:

Sunday School Memories

Pauline Grimshaw writes:

I am writing a brief history of the New Church Sunday School Union/New Church Youth Association from 1940 to the present day.

I should be very grateful if any one has any photos of Sunday School events within this time frame and would be prepared to let me have them.

Also if anyone has any memories of their Sunday School days I should be pleased to read them! Very many thanks.

Quiet Time Before Zoom Services

The Online Ministry Team writes:

The Online Ministry Team have had feedback that people enjoyed the few minutes of calm before the service on Christmas Day. As this is something that happens in most physical churches, we have decided to try having around five minutes of music before the service starts for personal prayer and quiet reflection. This means that people can come along at 3.15 and chat until 3.25, but then will be muted from that point. There will still be time to catch up with each other at the end of the service.

As ever, we are happy for feedback after we have tried this for a number of weeks.
