Mark and The Messiah

Mark and the Messiah Chapter 4:26-29

The Heavenly Seed Grows In Secret.

Developing a deeper trust in the Lord.

The secret power of prayer and other heavenly seeds.

One of the most important aspects of our spiritual life is free will. Without free will there can be no real progress. To force spiritual advancement upon an individual would be to destroy the life force within. With free will though comes choice and with that choice comes individual love, affection, desire and intention: - the very power of willing something to be so. For this reason the Lord offers us pathways forward into what is good and truthful but at the same time always leaves us with pathways into what is selfish and false. To enable these pathways to remain intact and accessible to our free will, many spiritual process must remain hidden from our conscious awareness. Imagine a reality where we needed to actively participate in digesting our food or none of the many benefits from those foods could be realised. Instead, we have been left in freedom to choose and enjoy what we eat while the process of digestion is allowed to operate in the background unhindered. So too does the Kingdom of God operate in the unconscious background of our lives while we are left in freedom and the free will choice to decide our path forward.

Peace holds within itself trust in the Lord, the trust that He governs all things and provides all things, and that He leads towards an end that is good. When we believe these things about Him we are at peace, since we fears nothing and no anxiety about things to come disturb us. How far we attain this state depends on how far we attain love to the Lord.
